Agenda

Jackie Kleppe opens meeting welcoming new executive council. Kleppe discusses basic meeting protocols including process for voting, capturing minutes, and identified Exec Committee would follow Robert’s Rules of Order.

May meeting minutes approved. (James Jorris motions; David Stenersen seconds).

Exec Committee intros:

- Kevin Zihlman has been full time at UI since 2010 and works in the athletic compliance office. He was a graduate student in UI athletics 2003-05. Zihlman highlighted the ability for the executive committee to get things done if the committee chooses. The executive committee is made up of the doers, he said.

- Marla Rosenblum (ad hoc member) has been at UI for 4 years and works three-quarters time. Rosenblum’s primary function is to support Staff Council. After working remote for more than a decade for a global corporation based in United Kingdom, Rosenblum has enjoyed the ability to meet people locally at UI in Iowa City.

- Molly James is an IC native. After attending college in North Carolina, she felt pull to come back. She joined the College of Medicine in 2007, and then moved to the College of Nursing where she supports continuing education and supports faculty and teaching. As an executive committee member, James wants to keep the momentum going with initiatives such as DEI.

- Jessica Welter studied finance in college. She moved from Wisconsin to Iowa in 2012, and joined UI in 2013. Welter took a new position as a pharmacy informaticist in 2020. Her team gets clinical information on new drugs and does development work to enable hospitals and doctors to order the new drugs.

- James Jorris moved from Washington D.C. to Newton, IA in high school. He attended UI and was a student worker in the Patient Financial Services department at UIHC where he works now. He views the executive committee opportunity to make a difference within the University.

- David Stenersen is the director of purchasing operations for the University. After working as a car mechanic, Stenersen joined UI in 2012, started as a temp agent and then a business analyst. Opportunities for volunteerism were a draw to the Staff Council. As a member of the community outreach committee, Stenersen has helped with events such as Kinnick clean up, Santa event, highway cleanup, and the homecoming parade.

- Brian Morelli joined the University two years ago as the head of marketing and communications for the Iowa Technology Institute, a research center within the College of Engineering. Morelli sees Staff Council executive committee as a way to get engaged across the University and have a voice.

Cloyd has helped 5 or 6 strategic plans for the library and sees those skills and applying to Staff Council. He brings a different ways of looking at problems, and values the opportunity to bring stories from colleagues at the library to campus leadership

- Isaac Podolefsky came to UI in 2013 from UNI. He has a background in IT and works in CLAS, but connects with people across campus. Podolefsky brought Zoom to UI in 2014 and has helped launch digital signage project on campus. Podolefsky said Staff Council can help him grow into higher levels of leadership where he hopes to implement ideas. He also values that Staff Council is made up of individuals who want to serve.

- Jackie Kleppe grew up on a farm 45 minutes outside of IC. Kleppe is a first-generation college student. She grew up as a Hawkeye fan and played in the Hawkeye marching band and served as a campus tour guide. She loved all things UI. After stint in radio sales, Kleppe joined UI as an admission councilor before moving to the health care side in 2007 to help create a STEM education program. Now she serves as director of outreach and engagement, building relationships with people across the state. She appreciates that Staff Council is focused on making things better in a positive way.
